

Which Schools in New York State Are Participating in the Vendi-Milk Program?

Senator Schumer started the Vendi-Milk program in March of 2002 as a way to give a boost to New York State's dairy industry and provide school children with a healthy alternative to soda for lunch or a snack. At the beginning of the recent school year, approximately 80 schools had signed up for the program. Since then, the number has virtually doubled, so that as the school year draw to a close, almost 160 schools are now participating across the state.

Upstate Farms Cooperative estimates that 300 gallons of milk are consumed per month from the average milk vending machine. Based on that estimate, when fully phased in, student milk consumption from a single vending machine yields almost $340 per month or more than $4,000 per year for the dairy industry. With about 160 milk machines now installed throughout New York schools, the machines in place can be expected to yield nearly $650,000 in annual revenue for the New York State dairy industry. For a county-by-county listing of individual schools involved in the Vendi-Milk program, please see the following report.
